

STOLEN TREASURE HUNTED IN JAPAN

WAY CLEARED
TO ARBITRATE
IN OIL STRIKELABOR SECRETARY
CALLS CIO UNION
BACK TO WORK

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach tonight proposed appointment of an impartial arbitrator to make a binding decision in the oil strike by December 1.

Schwellenbach asked the CIO Oil Workers to return to work immediately and called on the oil industry management to resume full operations.

Pending a decision before the arbitrator, Schwellenbach asked that workers return to a 40-hour week at a 15 per cent basic pay rate increase.

This is the percentage figures the companies had already offered to grant in advance of the conciliation meetings called by the government which had been going on for a week. The union had asked for a 30 per cent increase.

Will Speed Hearings
On receiving Schwellenbach's proposal that both sides accept decision of an arbitrator the conciliation meeting, which had been in session here since Saturday after similar meetings in Chicago, adjourned until 4 p. m., Eastern Standard Time tomorrow.

"At that time," Secretary Schwellenbach said in his proposal statement, "I will expect all the operators and the union to accept this proposal. Within 24 hours thereafter, I will make the appointment of an arbitrator."

Schwellenbach said hearings would proceed before the arbitrator speedily and that he would decide the case as soon as possible "but not later than December 1, 1945, unless by mutual consent the date is extended."

In the meantime, Daniel T. Pierce, vice president of the Sinclair Refining company, said "we're going along with the secretary—how could we do otherwise when the country faces such crisis."

O. A. Knight, president of the Oil Workers Union, said "we have been asked to give our decision to the secretary tomorrow at 4 o'clock," adding that "we are going to study the proposal in the meantime."

As the coal and oil strikes threatened to spread, the government took emergency action to prevent the kitchen gas ranges of eastern housewives from growing cold.

Meanwhile southern congressmen were notified by a CIO union official that a strike of 30,000 to 40,000 southern textile workers was "imminent."

Military Fuel Low
These were the high spots of the seething labor picture:

1. The labor department talked of hurrying up the start of the national labor-management peace conference—now set for November 4—in view of the threat to reconversion caused by labor unrest.

2. The CIO Textile Workers Union appealed to southern senators and representatives to form a commission to "deal with the strike crisis in the textile industry," where four mills are already closed.

3. The National Federation of Telephone Workers said the proposed brief "demonstration" walk-out of 200,000 telephone workers, in protest against a NLRB decision, will not take place before Wednesday.

Federal officials still spoke of government seizure of refineries as a last-resort measure, but Secretary Schwellenbach's time for peaceful settlement was running.

More Gasoline
Requested For Detroit Public

Detroit, Oct. 1. (AP)—Efforts to make gasoline available to the Detroit public were urged today by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach.

To that end he called upon the Detroit staff of the United States conciliation service to arrange immediately for a conference of local representatives of the striking Oil Workers International Union (CIO) and oil companies in this area.

E. J. Cunningham, regional director of the service, said steps were being taken in line with the request.

The secretary of labor's telegram arrived here as Mayor Edward J. Jeffries reiterated his position that the city should not enter the gasoline distribution business and as striking oil workers at two small companies here settled their wage dispute.

With private gasoline supplies further dwindling, city buses and streetcars carried abnormal loads again and additional public schools in the outlying districts were closed.

Settlements at the two plants here added a mere trickle to the normal flow of gasoline supplies for the city. Some significance was read into the agreements, however, with a union spokesman referring to them as the "first break" in the impasse.

The settlements provided for a wage increase at the Aurora Gasoline company and its subsidiary, Keystone Oil Refining company, which employ approximately 175 men. The firms produce 6,000,000 gallons of gasoline a month. Detroit's consumption is about 7,000,000 gallons a week.

The Oil Workers International Union (CIO) said in Washington there would be a 17½ cent hourly increase for the Oct. 1-Nov. 1 period. A similar increase would follow Nov. 1 when the plants change from the 48 to a 40-hour week—thus achieving the union's 30 per cent increase goal, an OWI source said.

Approximately 7,000 oil workers have been idle in the Detroit area.

GLOBE GIRDERS
GET OVER HUMPLeg Of Round-The-World
Plane Reaches To
Luliang, China

BY PAUL MILLER

Calcutta, Oct. 1 (AP)—A new Douglas Skyraider C-54 on the air transport command's "Globe" flight winged out of Calcutta today bound over "The Little Hump" for Luliang, China.

The new craft arrived here at 1:38 p. m., Greenwich mean time (8:38 a. m., Eastern Standard Time) after a 1,485 mile hop from Karachi, India.

The Globester's course will be south of the real "hump" which requires altitudes of 20,000 feet and upward. The Globester's altitude on the "Little Hump" will be not more than 13,000.

Plunging toward its goal of around the world in 151 hours, the Globester en route to Calcutta circled and dipped its wings to give the passengers a fair raisingly close view of the Taj Mahal, and flew low over ancient landmarks and mud hut villages along the river Ganges.

Among new passengers boarding the Globester at Karachi, as other riders disembarked to intermediate station, was Lt. James R. Cushman, 2220 West Main, Kalamazoo, Mich., enroute to an assignment at Barrackpore field, Calcutta.

Railroad Disaster
In England Takes
Total Of 39 Lives

London, Oct. 1. (AP)—The death toll of Britain's worst railroad disaster in 30 years reached 39 tonight, as rescue workers dug through the last of three passenger coaches smashed yesterday when the fast Scottish night express jumped the tracks 30 miles north of London.

More than 80 of the estimated 125 persons injured were still confined to hospitals, 36 hours after the accident.

Several hundred American soldiers from a nearby air base were in the rescue party which toiled throughout last night and today to clear the wreckage.

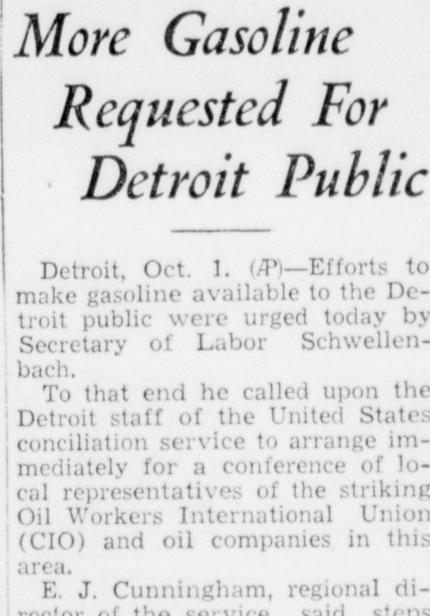

Although a number of United States troops were aboard the train, none has been reported killed or injured.

Michigan Senators
Feast On Whitefish
Fresh From Lakes

Washington, Oct. 1. (AP)—If everything goes well, Senators Ferguson and Vandenberg, Michigan Republicans, can feast here Wednesday night on freshly caught white fish from the Great Lakes.

About 80 pounds of fish will be shipped here in a test of a newly developed container designed to permit air transport of seafood without the use of ice.

If successful, the experiment will be the forerunner of a proposed aerial service for shipment of Great Lakes fish to eastern coastal markets.

WORKERS ARE RETURNING AT
KELSEY-HAYESCOMPANY PREPARES TO RESUME ITS

Detroit, Oct. 1 (AP)—A few erstwhile strikers at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company returned to the job today and the company, strike-bound 40 days, announced it was ready to resume operations tomorrow.

The return of some of the workers, estimated by the company at "about 100" early in the day, followed the removal of all officers of the strikers' unit of the United Automobile Workers (CIO).

Unit Defies Leaders
With the authority of the international union, Percy Llewellyn, administrator of the Kelsey-Hayes unit, removed its 17 officers Sunday. The unit had defied orders of the international to cease the strike.

After a specified period has passed, the unit has the right under the UAW-CIO constitution to hold another election of officers, with the deposited 17 eligible to run for reelection.

In addition to figuring prominently in the strike and layoff idleness of 80,000 Detroit area automotive workers, the Kelsey-Hayes walkout had brought the UAW-CIO's leadership face to face with a problem of control of subordinate groups in the organization.

President R. J. Thomas was booed off the microphone at a Kelsey-Hayes strikers' meeting on Friday night.

Affected in the Kelsey-Hayes walkout was a total of 4,500 workers. There was no way of determining what proportion would return tomorrow, but Lester Downie, Kelsey-Hayes vice president and treasurer, said "there seems to be a little back-to-work movement."

Downie said the company was seeking to advise all employees that operations would resume tomorrow on a regular basis if possible.

When Kelsey-Hayes resumes, its supplies of wheels and brake drums will start rolling again to the Ford Motor company.

Delegates to a UAW-CIO conference representing 109,000 Ford workers authorized a petition for a strike vote, bringing to 514,000 the total of auto industry workers to be affected.

The National Labor Relations board has scheduled strike votes Oct. 24 and 25 in General Motors Corp.—325,000 employees, and Chrysler Corp.—80,000 employees.

The union has yet to present its formal petition for the Ford strike vote.

In each instance the union is demanding a 30 per cent wage increase.

New Synthetic Tire
To Outwear Those Of Pre-War Rubber

Chicago, Oct. 1 (AP)—The B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company today introduced a passenger automobile tire made out of 99.8 per cent synthetic rubber which the company said will outwear pre-war tires made of natural rubber.

The new tire, made of a variety of synthetic rubber known as GR-S-10, was developed by Goodrich engineers.

The greatest advance in the new tire, A. C. Kelly, district manager, said, was the tread which is wider and rolls more squarely and flatly along the pavement. The increased "contact area," Kelly said, afforded greater stability, better distribution of weight and less scuffing of the tread.

Veterans Offered
Insurance Training

Lansing, Oct. 1 (AP)—A plan for insurance companies to train returning veterans under the G. I. Bill of Rights was outlined today by the Michigan Association of Insurance Agents.

Insurance companies licensed to do business in Michigan, about 1,500 qualified and licensed insurance agencies and licensed loss adjustment firms may institute approved courses of training, W. O. Hildebrand, association secretary-manager, said.

The veterans hired for on the job training will receive a federal grant of $75 a month if married and $50 a month if single, in addition to their starting salaries.

OPA BOARDS CLOSE

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—Rep. Gavin (R-Pa.) told the House today he was advised by Administrator Chester Bowles that OPA plans to close 3,600 of its 56,000 ration boards by the end of the year.

Reshuffle In Navy
Ordered By Truman

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—President Truman has ordered a broad reorganization of the navy. The reshuffle includes abolition of the position of commander in chief, United States fleet, whose major functions are transferred to the chief of naval operations.

Secretary Forrestal has signed a departmental order, however, continuing Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King in his present position of commander of the fleet during a brief period of transition until the new organization contemplated by the president's order is put into full effect.

King also continued to hold his formal commission as chief of naval operations.

The order was signed two days ago, but made public only today. A White House statement said its purpose is to enable the navy to incorporate in its organization some of the improvements which were indicated by wartime experience.

The White House said Secretary Forrestal has set up an informal board under the chairmanship of Undersecretary Ralph Bard to recommend a specific plan of organization based on the executive order.

Principal powers of the fleet commander in chief conferred upon the chief of naval operations are the duties of "the principal naval advisor to the president" and "command of the operating forces comprising the several fleets, seagoing forces, sea frontier forces, district and other forces, and the related shore establishments."

Under the change ordered today the chief of naval operations will continue to be responsible for the readiness and the logistics support of the operating forces of the navy, and his power to coordinate the navy's bureaus and offices to this end continues unchanged.

That's the prediction made by Reconversion Director John W. Snyder today. He said that while he is "firmly optimistic" about the future he considers a period of "high unemployment" inevitable because:

1. "It takes time for industry to turn-around—to stop work on munitions and retool for work on peacetime products."

2. It will be impossible to find jobs at the proposed million-a-month demobilization rate.

He feels Congress should adopt promptly a four-point program suggested by President Truman. This calls for "full employment, transitional tax adjustments, broadening and raising unemployment compensation and raising minimum wages."

Empty Shells Are
Clues In Mystery
Death Of Hunter

Saginaw, Mich., Oct. 1 (AP)—The mystery surrounding the death of Stephen Talaga, 38-year-old Bay City duck hunter, was lifted tonight when Talaga's companion admitted to Prosecutor Donald W. Gilbert that the fatal blast was accidentally discharged from his gun.

Frank Forgette, also of Bay City, said the accident occurred as the two were hunting near here last Saturday.

When a duck took off from the marshes, Gilbert quoted Forgette as saying, Talaga fired one shot and he (Forgette) followed with another. As he was about to fire a second time, Forgette said, he slipped and the discharge from his shotgun struck Talaga.

Gilbert said Forgette told him he at first denied firing the fatal blast because his mother was about to enter a hospital and he did not want to worry her.

The prosecutor said no warrant would be issued if the shooting is proved accidental. His announcement of the admission was made after Dale Austin, county identification superintendent, reported that two empty shells found near Talaga's gun were fired from the gun "of his hunting companion."

Russia was reported standing pat on the Potsdam decisions for procedure in dealing with Balkan treaties.

Russia was reported to have refused to sign conference documents unless her Balkan demands were accepted. However, there was some speculation that Molotov might abandon this stand in order to present the appearance of agreement even if a Balkan accord is not reached.

WAR FANATIC
SHINTOISM TO
BE BANISHEDGREAT TOKYO BANK
CLOSED, STOCKS
OF GOLD FOUND

(By The Associated Press)
Tokyo, Oct. 1 (AP)—American investigators set out today on the trail of the treasure which Japan looted from conquered lands, and also delved into the state religion of Shintoism which was used to foster fanaticism and wars.

In Tokyo's "Wall Street" the great Bank of Japan was closed. Army authorities declared it could reopen tomorrow if its officials quit stalling and helped track down the stolen riches of Asia.

In the vaults of this bank troops found gold and gold stocks earmarked for Siam and Indo-China. (It was not immediately clear whether this gold belonged to the Japanese or had been seized from those formerly Japanese-controlled countries.)

No trace was found in their records of the wealth removed by the Japanese from the Philippines and the East Indies.

History Teaching Watched
Simultaneously, MacArthur's civil information and education section prepared to deal a death blow to the Japanese government's control over Shintoism, which was artfully turned from the field of religion to war.

Col. Ken R. Dyke, head of the section, emphasized that no attempt would be made to interfere with the freedom of religion, but "we are going to be certain it (Shintoism) isn't used as a tool of the militarists."

Closely linked to this inquiry, he said, was a second one into the Japanese education system, designed to discover just how history now is being taught.

The Japanese government, in response to a directive from MacArthur, denied that any Filipino prisoners had been removed from the Philippines. MacArthur had demanded to know the whereabouts of all Filipino prisoners in Japan.

Between 1,300 and 1,400 Chinese laborers who had been held in Japan have been located, however, and will be returned to China this week, it was announced.

To Cripple Entire Building Industry

Portland, Ore., Oct. 1. (AP)—Officials of the AFL lumber strike policy committee announced today they were prepared to carry the five-state strike until 1946 or longer and cripple the entire building industry if necessary to obtain wage demands.

Frank Chapman, general representative of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, declared his union was backing the lumber workers "financially and morally."

The AFL Northwestern Council of Lumber and Sawmill Workers, whose 60,000 members are on their eighth day of strike, simultaneously served notice that it would attempt to halt CIO mills.

FARM HAND KILLED

Dougovito Served In Three Countries

Menominee—Major Carl Dougovito, 40 who has been in the Army for ten years was born at Cedar River, attended the Cedarville township schools and graduated from Stephenson High school in 1924.

He first entered the Army in 1935 when he was commissioned a lieutenant and assigned to duty with the Civilian Conservation Corps at Fort Brady, where he remained for six and one-half years.

In 1941, with the rank of captain he was called to active duty with the armed forces and went to Washington, D. C., where he was ordered to Moscow, Russia, in January of 1942, on a military mission for the United States. Major Dougovito remained in Moscow for six months and then was assigned to the southern border of Russia where he was active between Russia and Iran in the delivery of lend-lease supplies. His promotion to the rank of major was given him in September, 1942.

The major returned to the United States on a secret mission in July, 1943, and after remaining here for four months was ordered to England, July, 1944. Major Dougovito went to France and there was attached to the Brittany Base Section until March 1945. He was then ordered back to the United States and to the University of Indiana at Bloomington, Ind., to study the Russian language.

Major Dougovito was home in August on a 25-day leave before going to Camp Ritchie, Md., for reassignment. In 1937 he married Miss Mary Scitky at Gaastra, Mich., and they have three sons, Carl, Jr., Gregory and Michael. Mrs. Dougovito and the boys are living at Cedar River.

Major Dougovito while attending the University of Michigan was Big Ten Wrestling champion at his weight and was a member of the U. S. Olympic wrestling team. He was commander of the Civilian Conservation Corps camp in John W. Wells State Park, Cedar River, for a time.

Fort Custer Turns Out Civilians Now

Fort Custer, (P)—At this army post, where thousands of civilian boys turned into GIs early in the war, GIs are now being converted into civilians at the rate of better than 325 a day.

A new separation point, set up for soldiers stationed in the Sixth Service command, is processing 175 enlisted men and approximately 10 officers daily. This is in addition to the 150 wounded men, who for several months, have been getting out of the army every day because of physical disabilities.

Once the army got started on the discharge business it didn't take long to get into action, according to Capt. James Bell, head of the separation point. The second day 100 men were processed, he said, and now, two weeks later the peak of 175 has been reached.

Although the separation point comprises only a small part of Percy Jones hospital center, which now has a patient population of 10,000, it no doubt is the most popular spot on the post. Many are the low point soldiers seen looking longingly at the discharge barracks.

BIG SUMS GIVEN FOR POLIO FIGHT

Will Finance Education
As Well As Research
And Victims' Care

New York, (SS)—Large sums for the education of new workers to help in the fight against poliomyelitis were granted by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis during the past year.

The American Association of Medical Social Workers was given $101,760 for scholarships in medical social work, the foundation's annual report, released here today, states.

For scholarships in health education $80,000 was granted to the U. S. Public Health Service. Because of the acute need for more nurses specially trained to give the orthopedic care polio victims require, a grant of $13,400 for scholarships in this field was made to the National Organization for Public Health Nursing.

Altogether the foundation allotted during the year ending May 31 the "unprecedented total of $4,157,814.15 for research, education and the treatment of patients." Almost half of this was appropriated for training of polio fighters in various fields and for broadening public understanding of the problem.

One of the largest single grants was $90,000 to the University of Wisconsin for study of the relation of nutrition and diet to resistance and susceptibility to infantile paralysis.

So that a new hospital at Caracas, Venezuela, built specially for treatment of infantile paralysis, might give even better service, it received a grant of $2,500 for training a brace-maker.

Although no preventive or cure for the disease has yet been found, the foundation continued to support research on viruses which cause this and other diseases in the hope of finding some means of combating them or checking their spread.

Iron County Gov't. Costs Rated High

Iron River—In its population group, Iron county's government is the costliest in the state by a wide margin.

A report of John D. Morrison, auditor general, reveals that Iron county was first in costs in 1943 and retained its leadership in per capita expenditures in 1944. In 1943 it spent $15.63 for each person and in 1944 spent $15.86.

Livingston county on the other hand, with about the same population and a 15 per cent higher valuation spent $14.04 in 1943 and only $12.53 in 1944.

Seven counties are in the Iron county population group—Alpena, Barry, Cass, Grand Traverse, Iron, Livingston, and Menominee. Of the seven Iron has the smallest population but is highest in administrative expense, maintenance and construction of its highways, welfare and medical assistance, and in total cost of government functions.

Its administrative and operating expense costs $2.87 per person; maintenance and highway construction costs $6.07 per person; welfare and medical expense, $5.69 per person.

Two Plants Settle
Congressmen and the labor department are receiving a deluge of letters from mayors and citizens of midwestern cities—especially Michigan—reporting growing transportation crises, a labor department official said.

O. A. Knight, president of the CIO Oil Workers' International Union, reported that a settlement had been reached with two small Detroit plants—the Keystone and Lakewood, Wis., Mrs. Al Breitrich, Henry Roemer, and Mr. and Mrs. James Brown and daughter, Edith, all of Appleton, Wis.

His decision to raise the question of advancing the date of the management-labor peace conference was made at suggestion of Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers. Weather Prospects Not Too Good For Opening Of Series

Detroit, Oct. 1 (P)—Rain-drenched Detroit put its faith in the weather man today and looked forward to seeing the world series open on schedule Wednesday.

The weather bureau, trying to keep on top of the situation as the rain poured down hour after hour, said Wednesday would be "cloudy and cool—around 60" and that the rain ought to stop by that time.

It will warm up slightly for the second Tiger-Cub game Thursday but it will rain that night and Friday, date of the third game, the weather man said.

ADULT SCHOOL PLAN REVIEWED

Lions Also Hear Coach
Ruwitch Talk About
Football

Charles Folio, director of the Escanaba adult education school, outlined the plans now being formulated for adult education here at a meeting of the Escanaba Lions club last night at the Sherman hotel.

Folio declared that a questionnaire now being distributed will determine the number of types of courses to be offered during the coming season.

The need for continued education by adults was stressed by the speaker, who declared that surveys have shown that only small percentages of the population are well informed on important matters of government.

George Ruwitch, Escanaba high school football coach, also was a speaker on the Lions program last night and reviewed the innumerable details that go into the development of a football team.

Presenting his subject in a most informative manner, Coach Ruwitch described typical practice sessions of the Eskymos football squad. He stressed the need for adequate conditioning of football players and told how this problem is met without becoming boring to the football candidates.

The Eskymo coach also reviewed several of the Escanaba plays and explained how proper adjustments are made to compensate for changing defensive positions.

Mrs. Freda Peterson has returned to her home here on Schoolcraft avenue, after visiting for some time with her daughter, Irene, in Detroit.

Bengals Are Choice Of Sports Trailer

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

Detroit, Oct. 1 (P)—To begin with we want it understood this is not being written under duress. We are not being picketed or in any other way being intimidated by our surroundings. We are picking Detroit to win the world series not because we happen to be in Detroit, but because we think the Tigers are a better club over the sprint route than the Cubs, besides, we have a hunch they are overdue.

We realize that anyone picking the Tigers will be accused of making the selection on the theory that if you pick an underdog and it comes through you look much better than if you selected what might be considered the logical choice and it won.

If you consider pitching depth, all-around batting power as indicated by the season's records and general defensive play the Cubs seem the logical choice, and we think that, over the season just completed, if the two clubs were in the same league the Cubs would win the pennant.

Pitching Class Wins
But at the most there are only seven games in a world series and even a stumblebum has a chance in such a short affair, and the Tigers aren't in that class. If they were, you'd have to invent a new name for the other American league clubs.

In a short series fellows who haven't hit 6% during the season are liable to go hog wild, while a consistent hitter might go into one of those unaccountable slumps. You just can't figure those things in advance. The element of strain of series play also is a major factor.

Pitching depth also is not necessarily of paramount importance in such a series. The payoff usually is on pitching class. Christy Mathewson won three games of a five-game series in 1903, and although neither the Cubs or Tigers have even a rough sketch of a Mathewson, Hal Newhouse has the durability and possibly the ability to perform such a feat.

We are by no means discounting the ability of the Cub pitchers, but the fact remains they had on the whole more runs to back them up than the Detroit staff, and as a rule it is a lot easier to turn in a winning game on six or eight runs than on two or three.

Guess 4 Games to 2
Admitting the Cubs have shown more consistent plate power, we can turn back to the 1906 series to show that plate power during the season doesn't necessarily insure a series victory.

That was the year the Chicago Cubs won 116 games and finished 20 games ahead of the second-place Giants. The team had everything—hitting, pitching and fielding. The White Sox won the American league pennant with a team batting average of .228 and were known as the hitless wonders.

The White Sox won, four games to two.

Not that the Tigers are exactly hitless wonders. They have at least two experienced series performers we don't believe the Cubs can hold down all the way. One is Hank Greenberg, and the other is Rudy York. York has been having a comparatively poor year, but that doesn't mean he can't break up a game when the chips are down. Greenberg is Greenberg, that's all.

Now all we have to do to get a rebuttal to all our arguments is to look back to the days when the Yankees had power, pitching and fielding, and also were winning world series in four straight. But we'll still take the Tigers. Four games to two wouldn't be a bad guess. That would give Newhouse a chance to get in his three victories.

Big Texas Aggies Back Joins Lions

Detroit, Oct. 1 (P)—James Tomason, 200-pound blocking back of the Texas Aggies' great football teams of 1933-40, has signed a pro contract with the Detroit Lions and will report tomorrow, the club announced tonight.

Tomason, who helped clear the path for "Jarrin' John" Kimbrough, powerhouse Texas A.M. fullback, is on terminal leave from the army air forces, where in four years service he rose to the rank of captain. He was Detroit's No. 1 choice in the player draft of 1941, but enlisted in the air force immediately after graduation.

Now 25 years old, Tomason is being placed on inactive army status and thus becomes available for pro football.

A veteran of 65 bombing missions in the Pacific as a pilot, he is expected to report to the Lions tomorrow and will be available for next Sunday's Detroit-Green Bay game at Milwaukee.

Scouting Program Is Discussed At Kiwanis Meeting

Talks on Boy Scouting by two Scout executives, Winston Schallert of Iron Mountain and S. N. Bradford of Escanaba, provided the program for the Escanaba Kiwanis club at the Sherman hotel yesterday noon.

Speaking on the topic, "The Boy in Scouting," Schallert emphasized the need for adult interest in the program to furnish leadership for various Scouting activities. The Cubbing program, which is conducted in the homes for boys from 9 to 12 years of age, requires the assistance of the parents, in particular. "The high school boys of today are the forgotten men of tomorrow," Schallert continued. "They will be facing keen competition for jobs, with millions of men returning from service with the armed forces. They will require guidance and made to feel they have a place in their community."

Schallert predicted the Senior Scouting, with its Sea Scouting, Air Scouting and other programs, will attract in the future many of the older teen-age boys, who have not been served by the regular Scouting program.

In a brief talk, Bradford reviewed activities in the Red Buck district, which now comprises 28 Scout units in Delta, Schoolcraft and Menominee counties. The district has 658 boys registered as compared to 576 last year, and 203 leaders as compared to 154 a year ago.

Leave It to Doug

THE polite, grinning but deceitful Japanese are not pulling any wool over General MacArthur's eyes.
Last week, the Japanese government, apparently thinking it still could wield its influence, assumed upon itself the prerogative of suppressing Tokyo and Osaka newspapers, which had published Emperor Hirohito's pictures and interviews. News of Hirohito's visit to General MacArthur's headquarters caused the Son of God to lose face with the people, the Imperial government reasoned, so the government thought it would be a good idea to invoke a blackout of this news.

General MacArthur, apparently with his dander up, ordered the distribution of the suppressed editions, and made it plain that the Japanese newspapers in the future are to publish all the news of wartime atrocities and other events. Another bold move taken by MacArthur when he ordered his troops to take over 21 financial institutions, which have been profiting from the Japanese war plunder. Banks that were linked with the nation's military aggression will be liquidated.

Years of service in the Pacific have given General MacArthur the necessary background of experience to cope with the clever manipulations of the Japanese political, industrial and financial leaders who are desperately trying to safeguard their ill-gotten gains. We can leave the situation to Doug, with full assurance that he will handle it satisfactorily.

Escanaba Needs Housing

ALL this effort directed toward getting new industries, government offices and additional population for Escanaba will be of no avail unless this city gets busy soon and provides an adequate number of new homes.

We know of several salesmen, who wanted to locate their families in Escanaba, but were obliged to go elsewhere because they could not find suitable living quarters. Returning service men, who have acquired families since Pearl Harbor, are having difficulties in finding places to live here.

Everyone seemed to think that Escanaba's housing problem would quickly disappear when wartime restrictions on private home building were lifted. But it turns out that this will not be the case. Excessive costs of land, materials, labor, construction and financing stand in the way of any real home-building program. Recently published figures, revealing that a $6,000 prewar home would cost $8,000 or more to build now, are causing many families to postpone construction for a couple years at least. They are going to wait until prices come down.

Housing is closely tied up with the problem of building a bigger and better Escanaba. It is a problem that should receive the serious consideration of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, the city administration and every civic-minded organization and citizen.

Adult Education

HIGHLY satisfied with the results of last year's program, the Escanaba board of education has decided to sponsor the adult education school again this fall and winter. Last year, about four hundred grownups went back to school, studied art, typing, public speaking and other subjects from which they derived useful training and enjoyment.

This week, high school students will distribute questionnaires to the various homes of the city to ask adults to indicate their preference among about forty subjects suggested for the coming year. Each person is requested to check only one course so that an accurate measure of the public's desires can be obtained.

There is an impressive list of subjects suggested under the headings of vocational, vocational, occupational, home and family living and public discussion. For those who are preparing for American citizenship, the prescribed naturalization course will be offered.

Adult education is being offered in Escanaba and other cities of Michigan under the sponsorship of local boards of education, which are matching state aid funds provided by a special appropriation by the state legislature. This legislation was advocated by Governor Kelly for launching an experiment in adult education, and it was indicating more state aid would be forthcoming if the program proved to be a success. Escanaba won the distinction of presenting one of the best programs in the state. There is every reason to expect that the second year's project will be equally as successful as the first.

Its Tigers vs. Cubs

IT'S World Series time, the season of the year when the full realization of the importance of sports in America becomes most apparent. For the next week, more or less, the attention of America is directed, not to world affairs, labor strikes and the multitude of other problems, but to the baseball championship of the world.

This year it's the Tigers and Cubs in the great fall classic. The quality of the major league clubs naturally has dropped during the war years and the teams battling it out this week for the world's championship are only shadows of the great clubs of pre-war days. Despite all this, it's still the World Series, with all its typical American tradition, and millions of Americans, at home and abroad, will follow the progress of the games as avidly as always.

Baseball, football, basketball and the numerous other sports play an integral part in the lives of Americans. Ours is a nation of sports-loving people. The thrill of competition, bred from sports interest, is the backbone of our capitalistic system and the strength of our democracy.

Rising from the cataclysm of the most vicious war the history of mankind is developing a renewed national acceleration of sports progress. It will not be confined to major league baseball alone, nor to college athletics, but embraces a full program of sports and recreation for Americans of all ages, in small towns as well as the great metropolitan areas.

In Escanaba, as elsewhere, we must be ready to lend our support and encouragement to this development to breed a stronger and healthier America.

Only 55,000 fans will be in attendance for the World Series opener Wednesday, that's the capacity of Briggs Stadium in Detroit, but the hearts of 130,000,000 Americans will be there in spirit when the last strains of the National Anthem floats across the ball park and the umpire yells, "Play ball."

New Czar in Hollywood

WELL, we can't call the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America likely that more than the popular name the "Hays office" any more. And it seems for it will change now that Eric Johnston has taken over as president.

The handsome and energetic Mr. Johnston says he thinks "the Hays job will have to be remodeled and changed." That statement won't mean much even to the avid reader of movie fan magazines. To the average movie-goer the Hays job was clocking screen kisses, regulating the length of skirt and the dip of neckline, protecting the nation's eyes from overexposure to feminine curves and its ears from horrid words.

Naturally there was more to the job than that, though we have no idea what. However, when Mr. Johnston speaks of films as "America's greatest salesmen, her most natural and convincing ambassadors of good will," he is speaking of more familiar things.

Hollywood hasn't done too good a job of international relations. Through the years it has emphasized our wealth and superficialities. And so the world, most of which has become acquainted with this country through movies, has received a false and distorted picture of our life. Hollywood also has been patronizing or downright stupid in some of its condescending attempts to coddle Latin America with "good neighborliness."

We hope that the traveled and intelligent Mr. Johnston will be able to persuade our movie makers to present America and Americans to the world in a somewhat truer and more adult manner.

SMALL-TOWN ERA?
(Christian Science Monitor)

Even before the atomic bomb, the dangers of crowding population and industry into a few great cities were recognized, and decentralization of war industries was begun. Today a number of organizations and individuals are urging decentralization as the best peace time defense of democracy—economic as well as political.

Among them is the newly established Lyne Foundation, Inc., devoted to education along this line. The influential Committee for Economic Development stresses the strength of "community unity" in economic planning on a local basis, and adds that in the "second industrial revolution" now beginning, decentralization is an important element.

The first industrial revolution, borne in with hissing steam engines and carried on with humming electric power, set off the great migration to the big cities. The second industrial revolution, with its electronics and atomics, promises to reverse this flow of population. The airplane brought a preview of this trend. Airports had to be outside crowded cities.

Movies, radio, television, consolidated schools, electrification of farms, and the fact that neighbors a hundred miles away are nearer by plane than are those on opposite sides of great cities, have enabled rural areas to duplicate, if not surpass, the advantages long claimed for cities. The possibility of a 30-hour week makes rural living even more desirable, with its farms and gardens for spare-time work and its open spaces for recreation.

This trend to decentralization of industry and living is more than a theory. It's a present fact, illustrated by a long series of reports of the location of new or branch industrial plants in smaller towns.

The word "dynasty," meaning "a succession of rulers of the same family," stems in the Greek dynamis, "power," and is akin to such dyna- words as dynamite, dynamic, dynamo. Washington—The real meaning of the scientific research that led up to the great discoveries of the war has hardly been discussed at all. Like small boys on the Fourth of July, we're so impressed with the noise that we never stop to think of why or wherefore.

Some of us the other afternoon heard a group of scientists explain how the proximity fuse came into being. Overshadowed by the atomic bomb, this small device was possibly even more important in bringing the war to a close than the bomb.

It is a five-tube radio sending set fitted into a six-inch fuse which is, in turn, inserted in anti-aircraft and artillery shells. This miniature sending set can be adjusted so that when its beams strike a surface—the wing of an airplane or the ground—an impulse is sent back which explodes the shell.

—GERMANS ALMOST HAD IT—
In other words, the mind of man has fashioned a brain that tells the shell at what distance from a target to explode.

The Germans were working designedly to get this same device. They sent spies to our shores instructed to find out what progress we were making.

They finally achieved a model which was not in production on V-E day. If they had got it, the invasion of France would have been impossible because of the devastating effect of shells equipped with proximity fuses on massed troops. The mass bombing of Germany would likewise have been impossible.

Into the discovery of the proximity fuse and its fashioning went the work of from 600 to 800 scientists—physicists, chemists, astronomers, electrical engineers. Different groups were assigned different problems. Sometimes, two or three groups were working toward the same goal so that if two failed, one might succeed.

At the top was a coordinating force that pulled it together—the center of this remarkable nervous system linking so many first-rate minds with so many different skills. In the same way, the office of scientific research and development kept in touch with all the scientific projects covering every phase of war research.

The tieup with industry was very close. Industrial technicians and researchers were in on the whole project. The navy gave it unlimited backing.

—SHOULD WORK IN PEACE—
Nothing like this has ever happened before. Here is the pattern for the solution of all man's ills, if only we had the courage to use it in peace as in war.

Who can say how long it would take to discover the cause and the cure of cancer or infantile paralysis with 600 or 800 men and women working together toward a common goal?

As these scientists talk about their work, you catch a glimpse of this other world of infinite possibilities. They have seen it. For a brief time, working under the stress of national peril, they've been a part of it.

And now that peace has broken out, they are seeing it disintegrate. The coherence and the strength that were in it are running away like quicksilver. You can hardly believe that it ever existed.

It has its downright idiotic aspect, this process of tumbling down an organization that could be used to win a war but not a peace. Young men of genius and skill who worked four years on the fuse project are being drafted into the army. These same young men begged and pleaded, yes, and wept to be allowed to get into uniform.

But they were deferred as essential at the insistence of their superiors. Now these brilliant younger men who are the nucleus of our science of tomorrow are being put into the army to do routine, menial jobs. It is the kind of thing that denies, to say nothing of simple justice.

The team approach to scientific discovery has its dangers. These men see that. One is the danger of government domination of scientific education, perhaps of all education.

But having had a vision of another way of life, they are more aware than most of us of the conflicts and distortions of what we laughingly call normalcy.

you should tell us about the drug and how it got its name.—Mrs. M. S. F.

Answer: Atabrine is a trade-name coined and registered by the Winthrop Chemical Company, Inc., New York. The company tells me that the name has no etymological or other significance. The accepted American pronunciation is: AT-uh-breen.

However, the drug called Atabrine is listed in the United States Pharmacopoeia under the formidable name "quinacrine hydrochloride," which doubtless explains why a simpler and more pronounceable name was desirable.

Continued use of Atabrine turns the skin yellow, a condition, however, which soon disappears after the drug is discontinued. Also, there is no danger that permanent deafness will result from constant use of Atabrine, as is often the case in using quinine.

STAY OR LEAVE—Adequate housing is an advantage to any community.

They Thrive Only in Darkness

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

TSE PROBLEM—The housing situation being what it is, both here and in Gladstone, there is often a story behind those advertisements for an apartment or a house.

Such a story is that of Mrs. Robert Hampton, young wife of Aviation Machinist M. A. Hampton who has been in service in the Pacific for the past three years and who will soon be coming home. The husband was last home about six months ago, and at that time the Hamptons decided they wanted a place of their own once the war is over, for they have been together so long since their marriage.

About five months ago Mrs. Hampton began looking for a place where she and her young daughter (and her husband when he comes home) may live in Gladstone. She is seeking a three or four room heated apartment, either furnished or unfurnished, but so far she has been unable to find such a place.

"I expect Robert will be back before Christmas, and I would like to have a home ready for him before the holidays," Mrs. Hampton said.

Meanwhile she and her five-month-old daughter are living with Mrs. Lowell Hamacher, 524 Wisconsin avenue, the mother of AMMI-c Hampton. The Hamachers opened their home to the Hamptons, but their desire for a home of their own is understandable—since the war has kept them separated for so long.

HEALTHY SIGN—So far as local conditions are concerned, a housing shortage is a healthy sign. It means that our population has not decreased, but may be increasing, and it also indicates that business conditions are good and people are in a position to maintain homes of their own.

MORE ACUTE—Instead of becoming better, the housing shortage can be expected to become tighter in the months ahead.

The navy has announced that ships are available to transport one and one-half million men from the Pacific this year. Additional hundreds of thousands are coming home from Europe, and there is a steady trickle already from the Pacific theater.

Many of these men are single, and they will either be welcomed back to the parental home, or they will find lodgings here and there. Others will marry soon upon coming home, adding to the long list of those who want to set up households.

Marriage records in the war years show that hundreds of Delta county girls have married men in service, and are living at home until their husbands return. When they are reunited they will want a place of their own to live.

In other instances, married men have gone away to war. Meanwhile their wives and families have been taken in by his or her parents. When they return again, they will start house hunting.

NEW INDUSTRIES—Another factor in the housing shortage is the city's industrial promotion program. While most of the employees in new industries are local people, there are always a few families from outside who come with the industry. They too want homes.

STAY OR LEAVE—Adequate housing is an advantage to any community.

Communities that have enough modern houses for those who wish to make that community their permanent residence will grow in population. Many persons, once they rent for a few years in a community and have been steadily employed, will purchase or build homes.

If the communities do not have sufficient housing to provide adequate shelter for its population, many persons will move elsewhere. This will be especially true of the postwar reconversion period, when many young people have not yet put down "roots" in any community.

Men discharged from service and coming home to Escanaba and Gladstone, and failing to find suitable houses for rent, will soon be on the move again. G. I. SERVICE

Q. Is it permissible for a dependent parent to file application on her own behalf if the son is stationed in the United States?

A. No, the serviceman should file the application if he is in the United States. If he is stationed elsewhere, the parent could file the application, but then the appropriate authority would have to ascertain whether the serviceman would consent to the application and the subsequent pay deduction.

Q. Are servicemen exempt from taxes on long distance telephone calls?

A. No.

OF GENERAL INTEREST

Q. Is there a bar in the U. S. Capitol?

A. No; the last saloon bar was taken out of the Capitol in 1903.

Q. What was the reason for celebrating Air Force Day last August 1?

A. It was the anniversary of the Signal Corps order creating the Division of Aeronautics on August 1, 1907, "to study the flying machine and the possibility of adapting it to military purposes." Originally the Division of Aeronautics was headed by a Captain and two enlisted men.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Q. Should oilcloth be washed with water and soap?

A. It is best to wash it with warm water to which a little starch (made with boiling water) has been added.

Q. I have a nice cut-glass wine bottle but a cork has become lodged inside. How can it be removed?

A. Put enough strong ammonia inside the bottle so that the cork floats and allow to stand a few days. The ammonia will react on the cork and it will break into small pieces so that the bottle may be emptied.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Democratic members of the House Ways and Means committee last week saw President Truman, for the first time since he became President, hopping mad at Congress. They received a call Wednesday afternoon from Chairman "Muley Bob" Doughton asking all Democrats to be at the White House at 10 the next morning. Having just agreed to shelve the unemployment compensation bill, they had a pretty clear idea of what was coming.

Little time was wasted in pleasanties. The President had only a curt nod or "Hello" for the members as they came in, then plunged at once into his subject. The unemployment compensation features provided in his message must be enacted, he said, before he could feel that Congress has done the job the people expect of it. For over 45 minutes, the President sat and discussed the bill with the congressmen, and not a single smile cracked his face.

Closest he came to a smile was when he said: "President Roosevelt always used to rely upon the House to help him out against the Senate. I thought I could rely upon the Senate. But," the former senator from Missouri added, "it looks like I'm having a little trouble there now."

He referred to the senate's pruning of the original unemployment compensation bill offered by Senator Harley Kilgore of West Virginia.

Early in the conference, Representatives Dingell of Michigan, Fierharter of Pennsylvania and Forand of Rhode Island told the President that they agreed with his program and would like to see the House vote the $25 and 26-week provisions the Senate had knocked out. Chairman Doughton, half-hearted author of a bill including these provisions but not the full Kilgore bill, glared fiercely, while Forand reminded the President that he had himself introduced a bill calling for everything in the Kilgore bill.

Various members spoke up, trying to explain their positions. Chairman Doughton had grave doubts whether the $25 would not make the labor situation worse by stimulating idleness. However, the President refuted arguments about strikes and states' rights even before they raised.

"This need of that American people—who worked hard all through the war—for a small measure of help in tiding them over this winter's unemployment—has nothing to do with strikes. Today's strikes are no argument so far as this bill is concerned."

—STRIKE ACTION COMING—

Cautiously, he added, "and I may be doing something about the strikes before long."

One argument Truman didn't answer in advance was that offered by Representative Sid Camp of Georgia. Camp agreed with several other members—Mills of Arkansas, West of Texas and Gregory of Kentucky—that $25 per week was a high figure for compensation payments.

"In my state, my folks wouldn't feel any too good about that," Camp told his colleagues. "Hardly any of them would be able to collect $25 a week because they'd have had to be earning twice that much while they were working in order to be eligible for the $25. And $50 a week is an awful high figure for Georgia."

Truman made it clear among other things that he was absolutely opposed to Illinois Senator Scott Lucas' bill returning the U. S. employment service to the states. They must be operated by the federal government, Truman maintained, at least for a year.

Although he didn't say a single word which, on paper, would look harsh, the agreed. If they had met with him the previous afternoon—at the time he had issued the invitations—they figured they would have received a real dressing-down.

—CONGRESSWOMEN IN A HAREM—

The fabulous Ibn Saud, absolute ruler over millions of Arabs, broke the precedent of centuries by greeting a lady outside a harem. She was white-haired Mrs. Frances Bolton, Republican Congresswoman from Cleveland.

Ibn Saud refused to sit down at dinner with Mrs. Bolton, however, and she had her dinner in Ibn Saud's harem, while six male congressmen ate camel meat and various other delicacies at the table of the King himself.

Mrs. Bolton had accompanied the congressmen to the palace, even though it was not expected that she would be permitted an audience with the King. She entered his presence with the men, despite the growls of outraged Arab courtiers. After greeting Mrs. Bolton, Ibn Saud discreetly suggested that she might like to visit the harem, which she did.

The congresswoman from Ohio stayed with the King's ladies through most of the visit, but returned to the men later, dressed in native costume. At that particular moment, the King was complaining to the congressmen about the high cost of living, and roughly grabbed hold of Mrs. Bolton's robe to illustrate in detail the cost of each part of her costume.

Seeing that the men in the party had been given full native costumes and various other gifts, Mrs. Bolton made no offer to return the garments given her.

The male members of Congress were not permitted even a peek in the harem. They were Representatives Karl Mundt of South Dakota, Victor Wicksnham of Oklahoma, Chester Merrow of New Hampshire, Walter Huber and Mike Feighan of Ohio and A. S. J. Carnahan of Missouri.

Restrictions on home building will be removed Oct. 15. For years it was thumbs turned down—now it'll be thumbs smashed up!

People who marry for real love seldom do it again.

Wouldn't it be great if all the grouches were as bad off as they think they are?

SCHOOLS WILL CLOSE OCT. 4-5

Escanaba Teachers Will Attend Meeting In Marquette

Chinese Geologist Visits Peninsula

Ishpeming—One of Ishpeming's interesting visitors this week was Ping Kao, graduate of the University of Peking, and director of the geological survey for the Chinese government in the Kaingsi province.

He has been studying mining on the Marquette range and from here will go to Minnesota and then on to the Montana and Utah copper districts.

While here he was underground in Cliffs shaft mine.

One of the revealing facts about Chinese planning is that at least as long ago as 1942 they completed plans for exploitation of mineral resources in Manchuria, which lies the greater part of the mineral wealth of China, even at a time when Manchuria was in the hands of the enemy.

They are now in position to implement their planning and Ping Kao is one of several Chinese engineers and geologists who have visited this district.

The Kaingsi province, of which he is in charge, is also one of the world's greatest sources of tungsten, used in higher types of steel.

He was accompanied here by Dr. Carl Dutton commodities chief for iron of the United States geological survey.

Army Recruiting Service Planned

Milwaukee—Establishment of a Wisconsin-Upper Michigan Army Recruiting Service whose mission will be to secure a maximum of regular Army enlistments under the War Department's new recruiting program was today announced by Major Sidney T. Holzman, newly appointed commander of the unit. With headquarters in Room 712 of the Federal Building, Major Holzman will supervise the activities of 15 recruiting stations strategically located in key cities throughout Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

Discharged veterans or men between 18 and 35 who have had no previous Army experience may learn about the many opportunities offered under current enlistment regulations by contacting the Milwaukee recruiting office in the Federal Building, or any one of the other 14 conveniently located stations in Wisconsin and Upper Michigan. Included in these fourteen offices are main stations at Green Bay, Wausau and Ashland, with sub-stations located in Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Marinette, Manistique, Racine, Madison, Monroe, Eau Claire, Stevens Point, La Crosse and Rice Lake.

Mrs. Kenneth Peterson and daughter and Mrs. Frank Thill left Thursday for Detroit to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. William Folio spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. William Sefcik.

Amie LaSalle visited Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Humbert after returning from Detroit where he took his wife to visit her daughter, Mrs. Bruce Farley.

The group is sponsored by St. Joseph Home and School association. "Kokohanna," the name chosen by the group, means "lively," and the girls have lived up to the name. Money for grey sweat-shirts was earned by the girls, and dark blue symbols designed with an outdoor motif were made by the girls. All members of the group have earned the Trail Seeker's rank, which was awarded at the United Nations council fire on April 25. All the members completed the Junior Red Cross first aid course on June 22.

Detroit—How would you like to save 30 per cent of the gasoline that you ordinarily use in your automobile—if you could do it without buying so much as a 10-cent store gadget, or dopping your fuel, or adjusting a single nut, bolt or screw?

I am prepared to tell you how. I have just learned from an acquaintance who has been with the automobile manufacturing industry for more than 15 years. He and many of his associates regularly got 28 miles to the gallon, throughout the era of gas rationing, from stock model Chevrolets. As a stunt on one occasion, this man drove his car 39 miles on a gallon in normal traffic.

Perhaps you remember the phenomenal mileages that professional drivers used to get from stock cars, under careful supervision, under very difficult conditions, in the pre-war annual Gilmore economy contests out in California.

Those chaps would pull out of Los Angeles, climb over a 5000-foot mountain range, drop down to below sea level, climb up again to about 3000 feet—much of the way over sandy roads—in 300 miles. Out of a Willies they would get 43 to 44 miles from one gallon of standard motor fuel. A Chevrolet or Plymouth would give as much as 35 miles, and even a big Cadillac would give 25 miles. Well—here's how they did it.

There are some warnings that will follow. If you ignore them, don't blame me for any trouble you may get into, but first here's how:

When you start, accelerate in low gear to five or 10 miles an hour, and then shift directly into high without passing through second.

Open Throttle
Open your throttle not less than one-half or more than two-thirds. Hold it there, unless some hazard prevents, until you are up to about 35 miles an hour or within coasting distance of a stop light or stop street crossing.

Deduct and shut off your ignition with the key.

If there is a traffic stop ahead, try to brake or time your coast so that you arrive just as the light turns, and can continue on without stopping.

If the road is clear, coast until your speed has dropped to about 25 miles an hour. (For greater economy, coast to a speed of 15 miles an hour, but even at 25 miles you will save a lot of gas.)

Then turn on the ignition and "double-clutch" your motor back on. That is, let the clutch pedal out until the gears begin to engage, hesitate, and then release the clutch pedal the rest of the way. (This is for smoothness.)

Again open the throttle not less than half or more than two-thirds, accelerate to about 35, shut off the ignition, and repeat the whole process. Keep this up until your trip is ended.

That's all there is to it. If you follow these directions, you should be able to get 27 miles per gallon. How does it work? The explanation is simple:

At moderate speeds the throttle is not open wide enough to give efficient fuel combustion. At 30 miles an hour, two-thirds of the friction being overcome by the motor is inside the motor itself. A car coasting with the engine engaged uses almost as much gasoline as though it were being driven at 30 miles an hour.

So you accelerate, with the throttle open wide enough to give efficient use of the gasoline, and then shut off the motor and use no gasoline at all.

Now for the Warning:

Don't try this stunt in the winter, or for driving 100 miles or more at night, and don't use your

The ancients didn't know about bird migration and some people, even Aristotle, believed that the disappearance of certain birds, and the appearance of others in autumn, was accomplished by transmutation—birds turning into other species or even into animals.

New Kaiser-Frazer Auto To Resemble Other Cars

By S. BURTON HEATH

NEA Staff Correspondent

Detroit—When it was learned that Henry Kaiser was going into the automobile business there arose a quite general assumption that the shipbuilding wizard had some sort of rabbit in his hat. Either he would produce an appealing midget car big enough to compete with Ford-Chevrolet, Plymouth, but much underpriced, or he planned some 21st century innovation right out of the Sunday supplements.

Carney About Details

There's nothing to it. I can't tell you in detail the body lines and specifications of the new Frazer, which the Kaiser-Frazer Co. hopes to begin producing about February in the $1500 class, or of the new Kaiser which they are trying to get into showrooms about May to compete with Chevrolet-Ford-Plymouth. But I can assure you that most of the speculation about the Frazer and the Kaiser are all wet.

The company is pretty cagey about giving any details of its projected models, partly because of $25,000,000 stock issue is being offered and the SEC prefers that all publicity designed to influence stock sales should rest on the prospects. But I have been doing some scouting.

My prediction is that the Frazer and the Kaiser will not look very different than most of the other 1946 models now in or approaching production. The biggest difference will be where the garage man will see it often than you. There will, I predict, be no chassis frame. Both engine and wheel suspension will be supported directly by the body.

Why? Because that construction is fetish of the man who designed both cars for Kaiser-Frazer. He is Howard Darrin, who has stuck consistently to the chassis-less idea since, 12 years ago, he put it into the first French mass-production car, the Citroen. As recently as last year he incorporated the same thing in the new French Mathis, soon to go into production. He believes that it makes for lightness, simplicity and economy of manufacture.

Have Spitfire Noses

Noses of both cars, I understand, will be modeled on the famous British Spitfire fighter without increasing maximum width. The interior and the lines of both cars will be so designed that three persons can occupy the front seat of most small or medium cars. Both cars will have six-cylinder L-head motors made outside on Kaiser-Frazer specifications. The Frazers will develop somewhat more and the Kaisers somewhat less than 100 horsepower.

There will be more plastic, more aluminum and probably more magnesium in each car than in those to which you are accustomed but they will have scientifically considered functional usage. It won't be the lavish spectacular use that some feature articles have been predicting for the post-war era. Essentially the engines will be conventional.

Much experimentation will be necessary before anybody can afford to offer a motor capable of using the new super-fuels evolved for war planes.

The same is true of various other technological improvements that came out of the war. All automobile manufacturers know that some of these are feasible for motor cars, but time will be required to work out and test their application because an automobile maker cannot afford to use his customers for guinea pigs. Also the parts manufacturers will have to put such devices on a production basis before they could be used in any but a luxury car in which production cost is of no

Work Eases Worry
For War Widows

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

In New York there is a new organization with a heartbreakingly simple name, "Widows of World War II."

Members feel that perhaps during meeting together and discussing their mutual problems they can help each other get their feet on solid ground.

Undoubtedly such groups will spring up in towns and cities all over the country as young widows discover no one talks their language except their own sisterhood.

For the group in New York and any others that may be organized already throughout the country or may be soon, here is a story that may give inspiration:

Two young service wives in Columbus, Ohio, having received "missing in action" reports on their husbands and still not sure whether their men are alive or dead, put their minds and hands to work on a project that had a natural interest for them, making sturdy toys for children.

The project has grown into a real business—with more orders on hand than they can fill before Christmas. Work has helped them through some of the hardest months they may ever have to face. And if their men don't come back they are well on the way toward careers they can carry on at home.

Talk Doesn't Help

The idea for other war widows in that story isn't that they all start making toys. It is that they do more than talk about their troubles and sympathize with each other. That they help each other find new and constructive interests in life.

A talking organization won't really help them, except for an evening at a time. A working organization is what they really need to get them started on new paths.

a total of 36 inches in length and girth combined. Wrap in heavy paper, use a stout cord, hand-print completely and accurately the last address given directly on the wrapper.

What to send? Photographs of home folks are still tops on the list say returned vets. Folders for snapshots, or service wallets with a section allotted for Joe's pin-up girl, make slick gifts. So do comfort-aiding togs—house slippers, bathrobes and pajamas—which Joe is now finding more opportunity to use.

He has more time to write, play games, smoke a pipe and take snapshots of his peacetime travels so supply him as the wherewithal—stationery, kits, cribbage board, chess and dice sets, camera and film, pipes and pouches (tobacco he can get)—becomes available.

Sure to find their way to Joe's heart through the well-known juices, canned luxury food and some of mom's home cooking. The only defense enroute edibles have against deterioration and the ravages of insects is firm packing in tin containers.

If Joe has everything he needs, or can get it from a ship's store for much less than you'd have to pay, send him something he can't duplicate.

3. Compile a book of newspaper clippings which tell the story of his ship, company, regiment or operations during the war. This is more work, but Joe will thank you all of his life for preserving this record.

4. Make up a book of the funniest cartoons you can clip from newspapers and magazines, and paste side by side in an ordinary notebook to make an impressive and morale-lifting collection. This gift, the boys say, will become so dog-eared from being passed around that Joe won't have any thing left of it but happy memories.

Joyce M. Casey, Cpl. Schmeltzer Wed on Saturday

Miss Joyce M. Casey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Casey of Wells, and Cpl. Richard A. Schmeltzer, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Schmeltzer, 1122 Tenth avenue south, were united in marriage at a ceremony performed by Rev. Fr. Alphonse Wilberding in St. Joseph's rectory 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The attendants were Miss Faye M. Noel and Pvt. Francis Ryan. The bride wore a gold-colored suit with brown accessories and a corsage of red roses, while the bridegroom was attired in pastel green, with brown accessories, and also wore a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Casey, mother of the bride, wore a brown dress, trimmed in aqua yellow, and a yellow rose corsage, while the bridegroom's mother had a black dress, with black accessories and red roses. For her wedding trip, the bride chose a lime green dress with black accessories.

Dinner was served at the Dells for close members of the family, and a reception was held at the Schmeltzer home in the evening. The dinner table had a three-tiered wedding cake, with miniature soldier and bride, and bouquets of gladioli.

About 150 guests attended the reception. From out-of-town were Mrs. Ray Dennet, Evanston, Ill.; Miss Georgia Jennings, Mrs. Noel Dishno, and Mrs. Frank Velkavrh, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jennings, Mrs. Amelia Schmeltzer, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Lawrence, Ed Schmeltzer, Howard Schrandt, Mrs. Fern Dube, Miss Doris Denny, Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Savola all of Marquette.

POINT REWARD FOR USED FATS DOUBLED

4 points instead of 2 for every pound!

EVERY one of you housewives in America, in your own kitchen, can speed the return of larger supplies of soaps and all the peacetime things you have been waiting for so long. You can do it by saving more used fats... every drop you can scrape or skim. It's as urgently needed as ever. So keep doing it, won't you?

You women of America have done a magnificent job of saving used fats during the war, but victory has not ended the need. The fat supply for the manufacture of soap and other long-wanted products is millions of pounds less in 1945 than it was in 1944. That is why the government offers four ration points instead of two for every pound of used fats you turn in.

By skimming, scooping and scraping every last drop of used fat, you can help increase your own home supplies of soaps, soap flakes and powders more quickly. And not only soaps. But the nylons, cottons, electric washers, irons

HAS RESIGNEDHas Accepted Call To
Lutheran Church
In Chicago

The Rev. Palmer S. Nestander, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church for the past five years, has tendered his resignation.

Announcement of his decision was read by him from his pulpit at the close of services last Sunday morning. A call from the Messiah Lutheran church, in the Chicago south side, was given as the reason for his resignation.

The Chicago call is from a large congregation which recently built a new edifice and the change is regarded as a distinct advancement and one which Rev. Nestander felt he could not disregard.

The Nestanders came to Manistique in 1940 from Alta, Iowa, and in the intervening years have been very popular with the congregation membership and in the community as well. Mrs. Nestander, has for the past two years served part time on the school faculty. They have three children, Elaine, Wayne and David, and the matter of providing more adequate school facilities for the two oldest children was one of the incentives for the move.

In addition to the local charge, Rev. Nestander was pastor of the Lutheran congregation at Isabella. The board of deacons will meet tonight to act upon the resignation which will become effective on December 1.

Attended Funeral

Mr. Bamrick states that the funeral mass for his brother was conducted in the same church where he was baptized 81 years ago.

TIME MARCHES
ON-BUT WHERE?Some Confusion Is Experienced By
Time Change

What time is it?
The answer isn't as easy as one would think because when the clock on the corner of the First National Bank tolls out the hour of 8, over in Cooks, Gladstone and Escanaba it is 7 o'clock. Yea more.

Even though the clocks at the Soo depot and the Northern Greyhound bus station point to 8 o'clock, the time tables specifically state that it is 7 bells.

No, the bank clock and the Soo depot and Greyhound station clocks are not out of order. The difference lies in the fact that Manistique is still on Roosevelt time while the other places along the line and the railroad and bus lines went on Truman time some time during the wee hours of Sunday morning.

In a general sense the change is not noticed locally. At local depots however, a lot of people are still confused or at least are taking no chances. Chester Terrell at the Greyhound station states that many passengers came an hour earlier than necessary. The buses, according to current time, now maintain the following schedules: East bound, 2:48 a. m. and 2:48 p. m.; west bound, 11:59 a. m. and 11:59 p. m.

The Soo schedule, according to Manistique time, is as follows: East bound, 9:15 a. m. and 4:25 p. m.; west bound, 1:13 p. m. and 8:10 p. m.

The post office staff, however, has been the hardest hit by the change. Mail of the evening before must now be distributed and sent out first thing in the morning. Carriers must hurry through their routes and hurry back to get the morning's mail off before noon.

The matter has not as yet been discussed by the city council which will have to pass upon the matter before bringing about a change. Sentiment appears to be divided among local residents as to whether the city should use the sun as a basis for telling time or remain on a wartime basis.

Forestry Service
Asks Help From Rural Children

An appeal recently issued by H. O. Nixon, in charge of the local forestry station, for workers to harvest pine cones to be used for seedling purposes, has been so barren of results that he is making another appeal, this time to boys and girls of rural areas, assuring that the returns will be well worth the effort.

He is asking them to pick cones of both red pine and white pine varieties and all such of this year's crop brought in to the local forestry station will be paid for at the rate of $3 per bushel. Cones will be accepted in any amount. Only closed cones will be accepted. Those which are burst open are of no value.

The forestry service is making this appeal in an effort to secure an adequate amount of seed for nursery stock. The stock of seed is at low ebb at this time, says Mr. Nixon, and if the amount required is not secured, reforestation work will, of necessity, be curbed correspondingly.

TIRE DEMAND A
BIG HEADACHETire Wear On Increase
—Supply Becoming Smaller

Supplying the public's demand for new tires seems due to become more and more of a serious problem before it gets better, says Mrs. Ray Besner, in charge of the local OPA and rationing office.

Motorists, it seems, fail to realize that the more they use their cars, the more wear and tear their tires will receive and since gasoline went off the rationing list, the local demand for permits to buy new tires has become almost an avalanche, she says.

Unfilled applications for passenger car tires have been piling up so rapidly that the board's conscientious effort to do justice in the matter—giving preference to vital services, which include cars needed by physicians, dentists, ministers and also considering the urgent needs of farmers, construction workers, teachers and social workers—has made their task bewildering and at times far from pleasant.

Applicants who are not in one of the high preference groups cannot expect to get tires until the supply is increased greatly, says Mrs. Besner. When quotas are exhausted, she explains, the board cannot issue certificates. And if it did, motorists would not be able to get tires because they are not available.

When greater production of passenger tires permits, larger allocations will be made to OPA for rationing and will eventually overtake the demand, Mrs. Besner states.

Girl Scouting Plays
Role In Postwar Era

Girl Scouting will really play an important part in the rehabilitation of children in war-torn countries, according to Mrs. E. A. D'Amour, president of the local Girl Scout board.

Great interest is shown in the movement by government and diplomatic officials everywhere, because it is recognized as an obvious antidotal agency for the "youth movements" of the aggressors, she states.

Plans for postwar rehabilitation work on a world-wide basis will be made in November, when representatives of Girl Scout and Girl Guide organizations from many countries will meet together for the first time since the war began. The world conference will be held in Switzerland under the auspices of the World Association of Girl Scouts and Girl Guides. The American Girl Scout organization will be represented by its international secretary.

In addition to the plans for helping children reorganize their Scout troops and learn again how to work and play together, the world conference is expected to bring us news about what the Scouts and Guides did to carry on their organization during the war. We know many of the groups went underground, and popped right back into the picture the second their countries were liberated. At no time and in no country did the movement cease to exist, it is reported.

"For example," states Mrs. D'Amour, "one of the great sights in Paris after liberation, was the Girl Scouts marching twenty deep down the Champs Elysees. And the movement had doubled itself during the German occupation and in spite of German opposition."

"A full year before Mussolini was deposed, the Italian Girl Scouts began rebuilding their organization. The first groups met secretly in the Roman catacombs, right under the noses of the Fascists."

"And when Queen Wilhelmina returned to Holland, she was met by Dutch Girl Guides dressed in the uniforms they had hidden and saved for years."

The American Scouts will probably be able to do a great deal towards aiding the troops of other countries to get back into their stride. They have already provided money through the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund, for the reprinting of the Polish Girl Scout handbook and are sending literature to the famous Gin Ling college in China, where Scout leaders are being trained.

The Girl Scouts are even helping the Navy—in the person of a lieutenant stationed in Guam. He has organized 350 Girl Scouts in seven communities and occasionally he needs help.

Girl Scout interest in international friendship goes back thirty-three years to the time when Juliette Low founded the first troop in Savannah, Georgia. The postwar era gives an added impetus to this interest and finds more than a million Girl Scouts in America celebrating Girl Scout week—Oct. 28-Nov. 3, with the theme "Girl Scouting, Citizenship in Action Around the World."

Internationalism
Will Be Theme Of
Girl Scout Week

The first peacetime celebration of Girl Scout Week since Pearl Harbor will be held from Oct. 28 to Nov. 3, with the Girl Scouts of Gladstone joining with more than a million members of their organization throughout the nation to dedicate themselves to a postwar program for active citizenship. Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting, and whose birthday is October 30, placed a great deal of emphasis on the international aspect of the movement. So it is, that the theme of the rally this year is international relationships.

Mrs. Howard Quistorf, program chairman of the Girl Scout board, is coordinating the program for the children of the 14 troops of the city and Kipling, who are planning to participate in the rally and the Court of Awards. It will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the high school gym on October 29. All parents and interested persons are invited to attend.

Personnel

From indications this year's Gladstone high school band may be the best to represent the school in several years.

Only five members of last year's organization were lost through graduation and already the band is larger than a year ago. It is learned from Irving Johns, music director.

The organization made its first appearance at the Munising football game Sept. 21 and many favorable comments were heard later. They will play at the three regional games and will be seen in demonstrations on the field between halves of the Newberry and Ishpeming games.

Rehearsals are held four days weekly from 8 to 8:45 in contrast to three days for shorter periods last year. Rehearsal attendance is close to 100 per cent at every practice indicative of the interest the members have in their organization.

Cubs And Tigers Chipper And Cocky For Series Opener Wednesday

WORKOUTS HELD BY BOTH CLUBS

O'Neill, Detroit Pilot, Predicts Victory In Six Games

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Detroit, Oct. 1 (AP)—Detroit's triumphant Tigers fought their way through a welcoming throng here today, and the Chicago Cubs, the National league champs, pulled in tonight, feeling fit and tough for the opening game of the World Series on Wednesday.

Manager Steve O'Neill of the Tigers, possibly the best loved pilot any baseball club ever had, looked over his bedraggled athletes as they piled off the train from St. Louis and said: "You're looking at the next world champions."

"I'll say we'll definitely win it in six games," continued the Tiger leader, who hasn't fined a player in two years. "We've got the pitching to beat their ears off. Hank Borowy's the only pitcher they've got who figures to give us any trouble. He knows our batters."

Newhouse Starts
Both clubs were due to work out at Briggs stadium tomorrow, the Tigers at 11 a. m. and the Cubs in the afternoon, around 2 p. m. Senator A. B. "Happy" Chandler, the baseball commissioner, checked in at his hotel and said he would hold a couple of pre-series meetings tomorrow, first with the umpires and then with the managers, to iron out any possible arguments.

In Wednesday's first game, before an assured sell-out crowd of about 55,000, the Tigers will start their left-handed ace, Hal Newhouse, who has won 25 games, including yesterday's clincher at St. Louis, when Hank Greenberg poked a four-run home run to end all home runs. Manager Charlie Grimm's opening choice for the Cubs was expected to be Borowy, who was bought from the Yankees a few months ago for a reputed $100,000.

Newhouse pleaded with O'Neill this morning to let him work three series games. He is a curly-haired, baby-faced young man with a tremendous respect for his own pitching ability.

"That's impossible," O'Neill told him, patiently. "We play straight through, jumping to Chicago for the fourth game on Saturday without a day between games. You'll be lucky if you get in two games, the way these boys are feeling. They think they'll win four straight."

Bets Favor Bengals

If Newhouse wins the opener, O'Neill plans to pitch another lefthander, Frank "Stubby" Overmire, in the second contest. If Newhouse loses, Detroit's second-game hurler will be Virgil Trucks, the strong-armed young right-hander who just got out of the Navy. Dizzy Trout will work the fourth game in Chicago, O'Neill said positively.

After Borowy in the first game, Grimm of the Cubs figured to use veteran Claude Passeau in the second and Hank Wyse, a 22-game winner, in the third. O'Neill, upon it being remarked that World Series managers seldom, if ever, named their starting pitchers right down the line, said that was the way he liked to do it.

The Tigers were slight favorites to win both the first game and the championship. If one wished to bet on the Tigers to take the title he had to put up $13 to win $10. The Tiger admirer could bet $7 against $5 that his club would win the first game. Or, if one liked the Cubs to win the opener, he could get $6 against his $5.

It was raining hard when the Tigers got in today, and it continued to pour down most of the afternoon, but the weather bureau held out promise of clearing skies. The best guess was that it would be cool on Wednesday, with no rain.

Whatever happened, the weather scarcely could match that in which the Tigers sewed up the pennant yesterday in St. Louis. Umpire Joe Rue said coming up on the train last night he had never expected to see a game played in such conditions. He said, though, that the mere fact they played a game in such weather was to baseball's eternal credit, what with the Washington Senators still having a chance if the Tigers lost two games.

The Cubs were conditioned for any sort of weather, too. Playing the first six innings in rain and cool temperature, they beat the Pirates 4-3 in the first game of a doubleheader last Saturday to sew up the National league pennant.

Hack No Worry
Jim Tobin, the Tiger second-string pitcher who spent many years in the National league before joining Detroit this year, was extremely positive the Tigers had what it took to win the series. "We've got the pitching," he said. "Newhouse, Benton and Trout all figure to beat those fellows. Their punch is all tied up in Phil Cavarretta, Andy Pafko and Bill Nicholson, and they can't be pitched to. We won't have any trouble with Stan Hack, I think."

Greenberg said the reason he hit that home run in St. Louis yesterday was that he was afraid of finishing under 300 for the first time in his career. Actually, the big fellow wound up with a mark average of .310, highest mark any of the Tigers will carry into the series. He said he wasn't particularly wounded that the Browns passed Roger Cramer to get to him in the ninth inning.

"Times I've done that to me a lot of times since I got back," he said philosophically. "Before I went into the service they used to pass me to get to somebody else."

Manager O'Neill wished it stressed that the Tigers didn't win for him, but for owner Walter Briggs of the Detroit club.

"He's a real sportsman," Steve declared. "He isn't well, and he particularly wanted to win the pennant this year. Well, we did it for him, and we'll win the series for him, too."

Shortage Of Birds Noted As Upland Hunting Gets Going

Lansing, Oct. 1 (AP)—A shortage of upland game birds greeted Upper Peninsula hunters this morning for the opening of the 15-day season, the state conservation department reported today.

Department officials said shooting was expected to be poorest in the western part of the area. They said Drummond Island was the only section where birds have been reported plentiful.

Bow and arrow hunters also were out for deer and bear on the first day of the 36-day season for archers. The department reported a large deer population and an expected increase in the number of hunters.

At the same time, the department's game division asked hunters who kill prairie chickens, ruffed grouse and sharp-tailed grouse to send in the wings and tails of the birds, both during the Upper Peninsula season and the Lower Peninsula season.

PACKERS BEAT BEARS, 31 TO 21

Hutson Stars Again As Bays Win Hair-Raising Tilt

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 30 (AP)—Green Bay's champion Packers, with the same old sparkplug, the incomparable Don Hutson, setting the pace, opened their National Football League campaign today with a hair-raising 31 to 21 triumph over the Chicago Bears before an overflow crowd of 24,525 delighted fans.

Hutson, who has "retired" and come back more times than the Bears care to remember, didn't start the game. But he caught passes which started the Packers on their way to three touchdowns, and stepped in to kick four points after touchdowns, in his usual flawless style.

Bears Get 26 First Downs
Ted Fritch, another of a long list of brilliant Packer fullbacks, scored a pair of touchdowns.

He also booted a 35-yard placekick in the first quarter.

Gary Famiglietti scored all the Bear touchdowns and Pete Gudasius kicked all the extra points.

The Bears tied a league record by amassing 26 first downs in their unsuccessful battle with their greatest rival, and piled up 227 yards by completing 18 out of 33 forward passes. The Packers made 14 first downs, 190 yards by rushing, 94 through five successful passes out of 16 attempted.

J. H. Stephenson, the division's assistant chief, said a study of the wings and tails was helpful in determining the age and sex of the birds. This information, he reported, is helpful in estimating the bird population and is used as a guide in recommending hunting seasons and bag limits.

Detroit's pennant-mad citizens just missed setting a new all-time individual mark at Briggs stadium where 1,280,321 crowded through the turnstiles, hardly 10,000 under the New York Yankees' high of 1920. The Tigers were rained out of one home game.

Failure to repeat as American champions cost the St. Louis Browns a few thousand paid, making them the only team in the circuit failing to better the 1944 figures.

Doctor Shortage
American Council on Education and the National Research Council estimate there will be a shortage of 19,000 doctors after the war. With only 74,000 doctors operating in the United States after demands by the armed services were met, it was found that 81 counties in the country had no doctors, and some only one for every 10,000 persons.

TRUMAN CAN'T COME
Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—President Truman will be unable to attend any of the world series baseball games because of "previous engagements and commitments," the White House said today.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

It'll be the Tigers vs. the Cubs in the World Series opening tomorrow at Briggs Stadium. Hank Greenberg's round tripper with the bags loaded in the ninth inning at St. Louis Sunday was the clincher to the Tiger's claim for the American league flag, but even without it, the Bengals probably would have backed into the title when rain intervened to force cancellation of the second game of the doubleheader. It is well, however, that the Tigers won the crucial game and thereby did not have to reply on dismal weather to present them with the championship.

Sports fans in this area are fairly evenly divided on their World Series favorites, about half pulling for the Cubs to win the series and the other half rooting for the Tigers. The Cubs have long been popular in this area and Charlie Grimm, the Cubs' manager, particularly has a warm following in the entire upper peninsula. As the only Michigan team in the big leagues, the Tigers, of course, also have been popular in the peninsula and throughout the state.

The crowds at the two Escanaba home football games played thus far have been disappointing, particularly the Ironwood game which was expected to draw a full house. The Menominee game here next Saturday, always a crowd puller, undoubtedly will draw heavily, with prospects that the spacious bleacher section may be filled to capacity for the first time since pre-war days. Menominee, conquerors last Saturday of Sault Ste. Marie, will have a large delegation from that community.

The Eskymos played heads up football against Norway in virtually every department of the game except protecting the punt receiver. On these plays, the halfbacks watched the ball spinning through the air and completely ignored the Norway ends racing down the field to make the tackle. That explains why there were no punt returns during the entire game. The blocking didn't begin until the ball had reached the receiver and then, of course, it was too late. The blocking on plays from scrimmage, however, was good.

Four Straight Wanted
As a member of the New York Yanks, Borowy has beaten the Tigers eleven times and knows their batting strength and weaknesses.

"We're going to win this series, if it takes every man we've got," Grimm said. "We are going to take every game as it comes. I'm making no prediction, but we are going to try our damndest to win four straight."

Mickey Livingston will catch Borowy Wednesday, if Detroit's Hal Newhouse, a southpaw, draws the opening assignment for the Tigers. Paul Gillespie and Livingston will share the Cub catching chores.

If rain on opening day pushes the game back until Thursday Grimm said that Borowy would start anyway. He'll be held in readiness until the opening game is played, regardless of weather conditions.

BOROWY LEADS OFF FOR BRUINS

We'll Win If It Takes Every Man We've Got, Says Cholly Grimm

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY
Detroit, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs rolled into Detroit tonight, relaxed and full of cautious confidence as they pointed for their third World Series opener against the Detroit Tigers Wednesday.

Arriving a half hour late, the Bruins dispersed immediately to three hotels and a houseboat—indicative of the housing shortage in this World Series-gaga town.

Manager Charley Grimm, who spent most of the trip from Chicago regaling sports writers with tales of his managerial career with the Milwaukee Brewers, announced the Cubs would work out at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The players assigned to the Great Lakes passenger Vessel on the Detroit river were those accompanied by their wives, among them Phil Cavarretta, Peanuts Lowrey, Hank Wyse and Lon Warneke.

Prior to leaving Chicago, Grimm announced Hank Borowy, wiry pitching gift from the New York Yankees, would start Wednesday's first game against the Tigers.

The Cubs, dripping with confidence and rain, held a meeting behind closed doors to vote on their division of the World Series prize, and then boarded the train this evening for the Motor City. Capt. Phil Cavarretta said no announcement of the division would be made, but reports indicated that about 28 full shares were agreed upon, with perhaps a part share being divided by the clubhouse attendants and bat boy.

Strangely enough, Borowy, whose three September victories over the St. Louis Cardinals aided in the flag clinching, was not eligible to vote since he joined the club after June 1. However, it was indicated he would get a full share. Since starting with the Cubs July 29 against Cincinnati, Borowy has won eleven games and lost only two.

Twilight League Play Continues

Weekly twilight league golf sessions at the Escanaba golf club will continue through October despite the change to slow time, it was announced last night by Cotton Leonard, club pro.

If unable to play on Tuesday, the regular twilight league day, club members will be given until Sunday to finish their matches, and they may play off any day during the week. The regular twilight league suppers will be continued every Tuesday night.

Pairings for tonight's play are listed at the clubhouse.

FIVE DROP FROM UNBEATEN LIST

Upsets Mark Past Week In Peninsula Grid Scramble

Five Upper Peninsula football teams plummeted to the defeated ranks as a result of games of last week, leaving only four teams still unbeaten and untied, with another, Escanaba, still unbeaten but with its record marred by a tie game in the season's opener with the Soo.

Houghton, Iron Mountain, Kingsford, Marquette and Sault Ste. Marie, previously unbeaten, were casualties of the past week's play in the Upper Peninsula football joust. Still unbeaten are Negaunee, Hancock, Gladstone, Menominee and Escanaba. At least one of these teams will stumble this week since Escanaba and Menominee are scheduled against each other at the Escanaba athletic field.

Highest scoring team in the peninsula is Negaunee with a total of 89 points in four games, although Sault Ste. Marie, with 88 points, garnered its total in only three games. Defensively, Gladstone has the best record thus far, the only team in the peninsula that has not yet had a touchdown scored against it.

The summary after four weeks of play, listing games between Upper Peninsula teams only, follows:

SENEY REFUGE WILDFOWL AID

Rotarians Hear Talk By Manager Of Federal Wildfowl Project

Clarence Johnson, manager of the Senev wildlife refuge, established by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service in 1934 near Senev in Schoolcraft county, yesterday described the beneficial effect of the refuge in restoring wildfowl and other wildlife in a talk to the Escanaba Rotary club.

Lands for the refuge were purchased by the federal government in 1934 and the first ponds were built the following year, Johnson said. It is on one of four "flyways for ducks" in the United States, and was established at a time when the wildfowl population of the country was becoming alarmingly depleted.

There are 65,000 acres in the refuge, but so far only about one-half the area has been developed. Last year about 20,000 ducks found a refuge there for nesting, and it has been estimated that there were about 2,200 Canadian geese raised there.

Originally the land was a marsh, and at one time it was proposed to develop it as farm land but this proved unsuccessful. Now with the construction of ponds and dykes the water level has been raised and maintained to provide a nesting place and refuge for ducks and other wildlife. Foods relished by wildfowl have been planted to encourage their use of the area.

The ponds have been opened to pike fishing, and the trapping of muskrat and beaver in season, Johnson said.

In response to the many questions, Johnson said that wildfowl show a tendency to return there year after year for nesting. While the number of ducks will be increased because of the refuge, it may not mean better hunting in this area, he said.

FRANK WOLFE

Funeral services for Frank Wolfe were held yesterday afternoon at the Congregational church, Rapid River, with the Rev. Gerald Smith officiating. Military rites were conducted by the Gladstone post of the American Legion, with Sylvester Schram in charge. George Beaudry was chaplain.

The color bearers were George Peoples and Joseph Louis, and the firing squad was composed of George Beaudry, Earl Tounsgant, Richard Schram and Charles Anderson. Frank Schiese was the bugler.

At the church service a trio composed of Mrs. Clare Armstrong, Mrs. Carroll Moss and Mrs. Benne Fox sang "Abide With Me," accompanied by Mrs. A. Livermore. Later in the service, Miss Beverly Forest sang "No Night There," accompanied by the trio.

Pallbearers were William Turin, Levi Barbeau, Ed Hill, Eli Schram, Robert Vietzke and John Grandchamp. Attending the service from away were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blosser, Mr. and Mrs. Marland Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Wolfe, Mrs. Dorothy Strasser and Mrs. Evelyn Strasser of Cooke; Mr. and Mrs. John Carstensen of Iron Mountain; Mrs. E. News From Men In The Service

T/Sgt. Raymond Duchaine of Flat Rock returned home from Italy to spend a 30-day furlough with his wife and parents. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jules Duchaine of Gladstone and Flat Rock. He spent a year and a half overseas.

With the 37th Infantry Division on Luzon—the promotion of Vern McGinnis to the rank of Corporal Technician was announced today. His wife, Dorothy, and his parents Mr. and Mrs. John McGinnis, live in Bark River.

Cpl. McGinnis is a tractor driver in the 135th Field Artillery Battalion of the 37th Division. He joined his unit in June as it was fighting its last battle action of the war in the Cagayan Valley of Northern Luzon. When President Truman announced the end of hostilities his battery was in an advanced gun position. Supporting an infantry patrol, it had been firing its shells until the last cease fire order of the war was given.

Entering the Army in November 1943, Corporal McGinnis served with the 3rd Air Force, and later with the infantry at Camp Howe, Texas. He went overseas in May of this year. His unit was one of the first to fight in the Pacific, beginning its long battle service in New Georgia in the Solomon Islands.

Romulus Army Air Field, Mich.—T/Sgt. Chester R. LaPine, son of Arthur A. LaPine of Rapid River, was honorably discharged from the Army Air Forces at the separation base here.

Serving with the Air Transport Command in Chabua, India, T/Sgt. LaPine spent 26 months overseas and earned the Asiatic-Pacific Theater of Operations ribbon with two battle stars, the American Defense Service ribbon, and a Distinguished Unit Citation.

Applications For Extra Sugar Void

Applications for the five additional pounds of canning sugar who failed to apply before Sept. 30 are reminded that no further applications can be accepted by the local rationing board.

The quota for the Upper Peninsula has been exhausted and the District Office is compelled to adhere to the above deadline as announced early in September.

Any application postmarked not later than September 30, will be processed as quickly as the boards can complete the work and the sugar coupons will be mailed promptly.

Lakes make up one-twelfth of the entire area of Sweden.

LOCAL FLIER IS REPORTED DEAD

S/Sgt. Kenneth Buchholtz Killed Over Germany In 1944

S/Sgt. Kenneth Buchholtz was killed in action over Gotha, Germany, Feb. 24, 1944, when the Liberator bomber of which he was a gunner was destroyed by enemy action. Mrs. Mary Buchholtz, 508 South 13th street, has been notified by the war department. He had previously been reported missing in action.

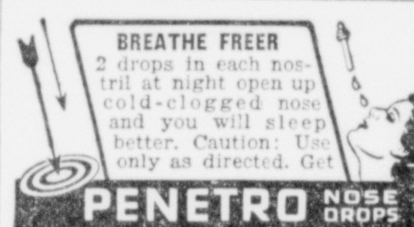

The telegram received by Mrs. Buchholtz Sunday did not contain any details of the death of her son but she had previously learned from private sources that the bomber had crashed. Four members of the crew bailed out and were taken prisoners by the Germans. They were liberated from German prison camps following the surrender of the Nazis, and presumably information from them formed the basis for the change in the status of S/Sgt. Buchholtz, who had been carried in the missing in action list for more than a year and a half.

He was born in Escanaba April 21, 1920, and was graduated from the Escanaba high school in 1938. He enlisted in the army Jan. 21, 1941. He received his training as an aerial gunner at Las Vegas, Nevada, and went overseas in October, 1943. He was on his sixth combat mission at the time of his death.

He has two brothers in service. Pfc. Paul Buchholtz is serving with the occupation troops in Japan and Cpl. William Buchholtz is stationed in Italy.

TAX PAYMENTS INCREASE 3.5%

Collections In Escanaba Now 82.4% Of Levy; Deadline Oct. 15

Escanaba city taxpayers are making their payments of city taxes earlier than they did last year at this time, indicating the possibility that a record near 100 per cent on collections may be realized by Oct. 15, the deadline for payment of city taxes without penalty.

Figures from the office of City Treasurer A. J. Manley yesterday revealed that $99,699.83 or 82 per cent of the total levy of $120,999.43 has been collected in city taxes to Oct. 1.

This is $12,406.26 or 3.5 per cent greater than collections to the same date last year.

The collections to Oct. 1, 1944, were $87,293.57 or 78.9 per cent of a total levy of $110,558.51.

It was considered a favorable condition that collections so far this year are above those of 1944, despite an increase in the levy. Although the city tax rate was reduced slightly from last year, the increased levy was expected to bring the percentage of collections down compared with 1944, when collections of about 96 per cent set a record high.

The deadline for the payment of city taxes is Oct. 15. After that date a four per cent penalty will be assessed.

In the boom year of 1929, the United States exported one billion dollars more of goods than imported.
